

Curriculum Vitae (December 2020)

Jens Erik Nielsen-Kudsk

Current clinical and academic position

- Clinical Professor of Cardiology, Institute of Clinical Medicine, Aarhus University (2017)
- Consultant, Department of Cardiology, Aarhus University Hospital (AUH), Skejby (since 1998)
- Head of Structural Interventional Cardiology (AUH)

Education

- 2017: Clinical Professor of Cardiology and Structural Heart Interventions
- Specialist in Structural and Congenital Heart Interventions (experience from more than 3000 congenital and structural heart interventions)
- 1998: Specialist/consultant in cardiology
- 1996: Doctor of Medical Sciences (Medicine), University of Copenhagen
- 1986: Graduate as a medical doctor from Aarhus University, Denmark

Research

- Clinical and experimental research related to structural heart interventions
- Left Atrial Appendage occlusion (LAAO); PFO/ASD closure; Intracardiac Echocardiography (ICE)
- Experimental cardiovascular research focused on animal models of pulmonary hypertension, pulmonary embolism and right heart failure
- Translational research from animal and bioengineering studies to randomized clinical trials

PhD and research year supervisor

Main supervisor on 8 PhD projects

Main supervisor on 12 research-year projects

Publications

- Author to 180 scientific papers in international medical journals
 - Author to >100 abstracts presented at international congresses/meetings in Cardiology
- Author to several chapters in Danish and International medical textbooks
- H-index: 36; Citations: 9999