Ph.D. Coordinator	Prof. Gianluigi Palombella e-mail gianluigi.palombella@santannapisa.it
Language	Italian, English
Duration	3 years
Academic Objectives	Our PhD in Law bears an essential international inspiration. It promotes a strong interdisciplinary methodology and develops by integrating generalist and specialized competencies in the legal field. It aims to train researchers capable of creativity and originality, in frontier fields, in the strategic directions of the DIRPOLIS Institute (sustainability, AI and technology law, environment and ecological transition, rule of law and constitutional guarantees, human rights, economic law, regulation and global governance, theories and practices of comparative and transnational law), and able to move with mastery in a global horizon of legal interconnections. The Course also aims to train, through a multi-disciplinary and inter-disciplinary didactic and research pathway, figures with a high scientific and professional profile adequately prepared both to operate in the academic and university research spheres at national and international levels and to hold highly qualified positions in national and international organizations and agencies, in the public, private and in the third sector.

Evaluation Criteria	Pre-selection Candidates are asked to take into account the research fields and interests of the members of the Ph.D. in Law Faculty Board. Eligibility for the competition is established beforehand by the Ph.D. Faculty board acting as a pre-selection committee and assessing the coherence of the research projects submitted with the lines of research of the Faculty and their scientific-disciplinary sectors.

Following the said pre-selection, the evaluation of eligible candidates is carried out by a Selection Committee and consists of an assessment of the qualifications presented and an interview. Assessment will be based on a scale of 1 to 100 points.

Assessment of Qualifications – maximum score: 70

The Selection Committee will assess the scientific qualifications submitted, the candidate's CV, and their research plan (quality of the project and relevance to the PhD board professors' research areas).

The research project, drafted in Italian or English, of a maximum of 3000 words (bibliography excluded) with details of the research activity that the candidate wishes to perform during their Ph.D., should include:

- a. the title;
- b. the scientific premises and relevant bibliography;
- c. the aim and expected results of the research project;
- d. coherence between the research project submitted and the lines of research followed by the teaching staff of the Ph.D., which can be found on the following website: <http://www.phdinlaw.santannapisa.it/>; <https://www.santannapisa.it/en/education/coordinator-and-board>

Those candidates obtaining a score of at least 49/70 in the assessment phase will be accepted for interview.

Candidates are not present during the assessment of qualifications.

Interview – maximum score: 30

The interview will focus on the qualifications submitted, the proposed research project, and the level of knowledge of English.

Candidates obtaining a score below 21/30 will be excluded from the final ranking list. Candidates have the option to interview via a video conference. In this case, the identity document used in the online application form must be shown before the start of the test to enable identification of the candidate.

The minimum score for inclusion in the final ranking list is 70/100.
